TEMPERS WORKED

San Francisco, May 22.-Adjourn nent of court last night ended the most important week in the long drawn out trial of Patrick Calhoun president of the United Railroads, now well into the fifth month of Juration. Judge and jury, attorneys and princi-pals indicated their relief at tempo-rary escape from the strain of the past few days, when every step for-ward has been characterized by skirmishes legal and persona that hourly ncrease in bitterness, Tempers on both sides were worked to thin edges while Rudolph Spreck-els, millionaire banker, who financed the prosecution, and John Helms, alternated on the witness stand yester-day, and it was evident, from the intense interest displayed by rival coun-sel, that a crisis in the case had been reached, but not passed. Interest was sustained until a late hour in the af-ternoon when assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, ignoring two restraining orders issued by a court of similar jurisdiction, announced that he would ask Judge Lawlor's permis-sion to open sealed packages seized in the raid upon the office of William M. Abbott and alleged to contain documents stolen from the office of Wil-liam J. Burns, head of the prosecu-tion's corps of special detectives. Arguments upon this issue were de-ferred until Monday, when the prosecution, according to announcement made yesterday, will attempt to sup-port the charges made by Detective Helms against Abbott, under whose direction he claims to have operated. One of the lines of probable inquiry was indicated today when Helms, after testifying that he knew Luther Brown, former partner of Earl Rogers,

"Brown met me at the steamer land ing on the day I left the city after quitting the service of the United Railroads. He asked me what I knew about the dynamiting.
"What dynamiting?" inquired Mr.

dynamiting of Gallagher's home," said the witness, referring to the blowing up in Oakland last spring of the home of former Supervisor

The defense objected to this line of nquiry and it was not pursued fur-

Another opening wedge was inser ed when Helms declared that several efforts had been made to prevent his appearance as a witness in the Cal-houn trial. Mention was made of two men who went to his home in Trin-ity county several weeks ago and Helms charged that since his arrival in this city a plot had been laid in the office of W. H. Metson, a prominent attorney of this city, to trap him in a conversation over the telephone The testimony followed an inquiry by Mr. Rogers who asked the witness if he knew that a graphaphone had been attached to the telephone while he was speaking from the other end of

It was while Helms was on the stan that the most dramatic outburst of the day occurred. Helms charged that Abbott had once expressed to him a wish that "some one would shoot Hen-ey," and that Stanley Moore had conratulated him on his performance in ollowing Burns.

Usually deliberate in his manner, Stanley Moore arose in his place at the counsel table and, in a voice trem bling with passion, told Helms that he was "lying like a dog," and perjuring himself.

The face of the witness paled at the insult and he stepped in front of Judge Lawlor with his arm extended in a threatening gesture as he defied the young attorney to make his laudation of the interragor. The court permitted Mr. Heney to continue, how-ever, and Mr. Cobb said he knew that his associate had thrown up his representation of the government in the direct the prosecution of Senator Borand helfers $2.50a6.40; calves $5.00a ah of Idaho. Mr. Cobb affirmed that 7.00. Mr. Heney had lost his law practice since entering upon his duties as municipal prosecutor.
